Power Gold: Refreshed Rewind

Seven songs make the transition from recurrent to gold on the Fall 2026 Power Gold Top 100 (see page 12), led by Koe Wetzel & Jessie Murph's "High Road" at No. 1, as well as Post Malone f/ Blake Shelton's "Pour Me A Drink" at No. 2. Also debuting in the top 10 is Kane Brown & Marshmello's "Miles On It." Combined with four top 10 debuts in the Spring – Shaboozey's "A Bar Song (Tipsy)," Nate Smith's "World On Fire," Sam Hunt's "Outskirts" and Bailey Zimmerman's "Where It Ends" – that makes seven 2026 additions to the top 10 most-played Power Gold songs this year.

Koe Wetzel & Jessie Murph

Post Malone & Blake Shelton

As much change as there is at the top, some things remain very familiar: Jason Aldean leads all artists with nine titles, including his most-played gold title "Girl Like You" and adding "My Kinda Party," which rejoins the Top 100 for the first time since Spring 2025. Luke Combs has seven songs featured, topped by Power Gold debut "Ain't No Love In Oklahoma" at No. 17. Morgan Wallen's six titles are led by his collaboration with Ernest, "Cowgirls."

Speaking of collaborations, 13 titles are collabs, 13 feature duos or groups and 13 feature women. Seventy of the Power Gold Top 100 feature solo male performances; five feature solo female performances, led by Dasha's "Austin," which debuted on the list in the Spring. The Power Gold Top 100 has 48 songs from the 2010s, 43 from the 2020s, eight from the 2000s and one, Tim McGraw's "Something Like That," preceding the century mark (1999).

The songs with the most Power Gold appearances in Country Aircheck history are Rascal Flatts' "Life Is A Highway," Keith Urban's "Somebody Like You," Dierks Bentley's "What Was I Thinkin'," Carrie Underwood's "Before He Cheats" and Kenny Chesney's "I Go Back." Honorable mention to Zac Brown Band's "Chicken Fried" at 24 appearances.

NaSHoF: Lyle Lovett

Forty years after the release of his self-titled debut album on Curb/MCA, genre-bending Texan Lyle Lovett will be inducted into the Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame Oct. 26 in the veteran songwriter/artist category. His career has seen the release of 14 albums, four Grammy wins, and the top 20-charting country songs "Cowboy Man," "Give Back My Heart," "Why I Don't Know," "God Will," and "She's No Lady." Lovett was honored with the Americana Music Association's Trailblazer Award in 2007, named Texas State Musician in 2011, inducted into the Texas Heritage Songwriters Hall of Fame in 2012 and into the Austin City Limits Hall of Fame in 2019.

NEW ARTIST OF THE YEAR

[On his songwriting method]: I occasionally make notes, but rarely. I remember seeing Buck Owens on The Mike Douglas Show when I was a kid, and, when asked whether he carries around a notebook of song ideas, he said, "I figure if it's good enough, I'll just remember it." That has always stuck with me. But the process of making up songs is really elusive, and it never happens exactly the same way twice for me.

Music genres are more of an industry construct. It's a natural, human thing to want to identify something and know where to put it in a record store, way back when there were such things. But I've always been entertained by the descriptions of my music, and where it's ended up in stores over the years, either next to Patty Loveless or Loverboy. Still, I've always been supported by folks in the industry, and producers like Tony Brown who were not afraid to be adventurous. Growing up in a big media market like Houston, I listened to Pop radio, Country radio and my parents' record collection, which had Ray Price records and Ray Charles records, so I never felt like music had to be just one thing, or that I had to pick a team.

[On being known for quirky songs]: My life is conventional, or as conventional as it can be for someone who travels for a living, but somehow I get referred to as quirky. It's not a term I apply to myself. I've lived in the same place my whole life and never felt compelled to go too far beyond. My family and my church are really important to me, and my values are very traditional. I've worked my whole life to keep my grandpa's farm from being sold out of the family [again, after] buying it back in 1994 and we live there now. It really has been my life's work.

My nine-year-old twins have inspired many of my songs. I have not experienced anything more powerful in my life than being their dad. I was 59 years old when they were born, and finally having a chance to feel what all my friends already knew has been the best part of my life. "Pants Is Overrated" is a song I wrote based on the experience of getting them dressed before they were a year old, and how they would resist clothing. I remember singing the chorus one morning trying dress them, and it distracted them enough to get their clothes on. "Are We Dancing" I made up when they were little enough that I could pick them both up at the same time and glide across the living room floor with them. There's one song the children and I made up together when they were five that I've been playing live ever since, but have never recorded. It's called "The Naked Party," sort of a sequel to "Pants."

What an honor it is to be inducted into the Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame. It's a really big deal to me. To be included with all the historic songwriters who are already a part of it really is unbelievable. It took me longer to get in than [fellow 2026 honoree] Taylor Swift [laughs]. And I've known [2026 honoree] Shawn Camp for a long time. We met through Guy Clark. To be in the company of all those great writers is really humbling.

I'm hoping I can be at the ceremony, but it's when I have a single day off on tour dates between Ashland, OR and Folsom, CA. We're still trying to figure it out, but it's going to be a tough one. I don't know that Nashville songs make supersonic private jets possible. And I always feel like my first obligation in that kind of situation is to the people who bought tickets to my shows.

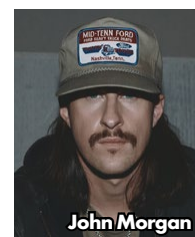

I'm grateful for the songs I've made up over the years, some when I was 17, that people seem to still want to hear on the road. To do something that you do for fun for a living, it doesn't get any better than that. The older I get, the more clear to me what a privilege it is.

—Phyllis Stark

OFF THE RECORD

Singer/songwriter Sasha Alex Sloan shares the stories behind a few of the songs she's co-written:

I wrote "Way To Go" with Zach John King, Rodney Clawson and Jimmy Robbins.

What a room to be in, truly some of my favorite songwriters in town. It was one of those days when you're having so much fun that the song kind of writes itself. When I heard the demo back, I remember thinking, "Damn, I forgot how good this one is!" Then, a few weeks later, Zach casually texted us to let us know Brooks & Dunn would be hopping on it, which pretty much made my year.

"Yours" was written with Tucker Wetmore, Randy Montana and Chris LaCorte at a writers retreat in Scottsdale. As soon as we started catching a vibe for what the song could sound like I was obsessed with its breeziness. I love a song that makes you want to drive with the windows down. Tucker came in with the chorus pretty much finished that he had written with Carver Partin, and we helped figure out the rest. It was such a fun day with a fun group of people, and I love how the song turned out.

I wrote "Famous To You" with Max McNown, Ava Suppelsa and Jamie Kenney. The three of them had already written some incredible songs together and they were nice enough to add me to their write that day. I remember we started the day by talking about how we needed to write a song about our dogs, but I don't think any of us were emotionally prepared for that undertaking, so we wrote "Famous To You" instead. I'm such a fan of Max, and I'm so happy this song is out in the world.

When I got the call to work with Olivia Rodrigo and Dan Nigro, I was overwhelmed with gratitude. I was also a bit, maybe very, nervous, but that melted away as soon as I walked into the room because they're both some of the kindest people I've ever had the pleasure of working with. We wrote "What's Wrong With Me," I went home, and then I didn't hear anything about it for a few months. Then I found out Robert Smith from The Cure would be featured on it and I nearly died.

I wrote "Whiskey Lying" with Zach John King, Rodney Clawson and Chris LaCorte at that same retreat in Scottsdale. It was a night session which meant we were all pretty tired by that point but we absolutely rallied. Zach walked in with the title, and once we started, the song came together really quickly. It ended up being one of my favorite songs I've been a part of in the last year.

FOR YOUR GRAMMY® CONSIDERATION

RYAN BINGHAM

AND THE TEXAS GENTLEMEN

THEY CALL US THE LUCKY ONES

“As complete of a record as Bingham has ever recorded.

Rolling Stone

“This is one smart, encompassing album... He has already won a lasting place in the line of such raspy-voiced singer-songwriters as Bob Dylan, John Prine, Bruce Springsteen and Steve Earle.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

“Ryan Bingham has come back to music in a big way.

Texas Monthly

“A handful of must-hear stories sketched into Bingham's growing songbook of cinematic tales...no song may stand out quite like 'Cocaine Charlie.'
