CMAMF: Nashville Never Better

As reported earlier today (CAT 6/14), the 2010 CMA Music Festival set multiple attendance records. An estimated 65,000 fans showed up downtown each day (+16% over 2009), with roughly 49,000 filling the sold-out-all-nights LP Field (+16.7%) and four-day ticket package sales were up 33.3%. But you didn't need a head count to feel the increased energy. Country Aircheck's ongoing coverage continues with a look at rising corporate interest, recaps of the nightly concerts and other highlights.

Marketers Embrace Music Fest

Walking around CMA Music Fest, one couldn't help but be impressed by the increased presence of corporate sponsorship, from the complimentary Macanudo Cigar Lounge at Riverfront Park to test-drives of new Chevy vehicles. CMA VP/Strategic Partnerships Sheri Warnke tells Country Aircheck, "When I came onboard, my goal was to expose country music to more companies – not just in terms of sheer numbers, but also being very strategic about the products that made the most sense to be here. By understanding the criteria by which the country fan could be defined and overlaying that with other demographic data, we were able to develop a profile, just as Country radio also understands who their PIs are."

Nightly Concert Recaps

Friday: Julianne Hough got the night started, performing "That Song In My Head" among others. Josh Turner's six-song set ranged from his current single "All Over Me" to "Your Man." Miranda Lambert dialed up the energy with "Gunpowder And Lead" and "Kerosene", only slowing down for "The House That Built Me." "I have to tell you guys, you sound unbelievable up here," Keith Urban said as the audience sang along with “Kiss A Girl” and “Somebody Like You.” The highlight of the night came when he was joined by producer Tony Brown, Little Big Town’s Kimberly Schlapman and Karen Fairchild and Sarah Buxton for a rendition of “With A Little Help From My Friends” against a backdrop of flood images and dedicated to “the countless men, women and angels who helped out in Nashville.” Reba joked with the crowd, “I don’t think I’m the only woman in this stadium who’s ever fantasized about a cowboy” as she began “I Want A Cowboy.” Kid Rock brought it home with a 45-minute set that included “All Summer Long” and a standing ovation for the patriotic “Born Free.”

Saturday: Randy Houser opened, proving his voice is more than big enough for stadium work with a set that included “Boots On” and “Anything Goes.” Easton Corbin performed his hit “A Little More Country Than That” and new single “Roll With It.” The crowd came to its feet for Billy Currington, particularly on “People Are Crazy.” The Zac Brown Band opened with “Toes” and gave CMAMF it’s Bonnaroo moment with an extended multi-solo jam. They also brought out Joey+Rory to play their new single, co-written by Brown, called “This Song’s For You.” If the reaction is any indication, this one will be lighting up request lines soon. “This week, especially, you guys are part of our community,” Martina McBride told the crowd, thanking them for their support of the city. A minutes-long ovation following “Broken Wing” left McBride quite obviously choked up. Rascal Flatts closed with a hit-packed set including “Me And My Gang,” “Summer Nights,” “Unstoppable” and “Bob That Head.”

MY TUNES: MUSIC THAT SHAPED MY LIFE

Craig Campbell

Publicist Craig Campbell discusses his most important songs, artists or concerts:

1. Chris LeDoux, Coyote's in Louisville, 1990-ish: I did his publicity, and that was the first time I had seen him live. This quiet, mild-mannered cowboy was a madman on stage. First time I ever saw a country act use pyro, especially in a club.

2. Cheap Trick opening for Foghat, Capital Centre, 1978: This was my first arena concert. I couldn't understand how so many people were getting away with smoking pot, then I realized there wasn't much they could do with so many people smoking pot.

3. Patty Loveless/How Can I Help You Say Goodbye: It was the first time I saw how an amazing song could make people cry.

4. Dixie Chicks, Fly Tour, Anaheim's The Pond: It was the first date of their headline arena tour. Seeing the place sold-out made me feel like I might have had a tiny little bit to do with those people buying a ticket.

5. Gretchen Wilson's performances at CRS, 2004: Everyone knew they were witnessing something very special.

• A highly regarded song or album you've never heard:

Anything by the White Stripes; they've just never interested me.

• An "important" piece of music you just don't get: Anything by Dire Straits. Boring.

• An album you played or listened to incessantly: Rodney Crowell's Fate's Right Hand and Jon Randall's Walking Among The Living – amazing music from guys who know how to tell a story.

• One obscure or non-country song everyone should listen to right now: Eric Lee Beddingfield's "Gospel According to Jones" – he wove George's hits throughout the song and had him come in and sing on it. Stone country.

Sunday: Comedian Paul Harris burned some daylight early in the final night's show before Justin Moore kicked off the music with “Back That Thing Up” and “Small Town USA,” among others. Kellie Pickler's set included “Best Days Of Your Life” and “Red High Heels.” Blake Shelton opened with “Ol' Red” and had special guests lined up for “Home” (Miranda Lambert) and “Hillbilly Bone” (Trace Adkins). Adkins picked things up there with songs including his new single “This Ain't No Love Song,” “You're Gonna Miss This” and closer “Honkytonk Badonkadonk.” Darius Rucker gave the crowd the hits they wanted, including “Alright” and “Don’t Think I Don’t Think About It,” and threw in his past life’s “I Only Wanna Be With You” as well as Prince’s “Purple Rain.” “Ticks,” “American Saturday Night,” “I’m Gonna Miss Her” and “Welcome To The Future” were among the songs in Brad Paisley’s festival-closing set. He finished with “Alcohol” before the big gun fireworks gave the event its final punctuation.

Ed. Note: Extensive coverage of Thursday night’s show was included in Friday’s Country Aircheck Today (6/11).

Taking Care Of Business

Five weeks after the devastating Nashville flood, downtown looked to be fully operational. Some notes:

- Joe’s Crab Shack, which sustained $1 million in damage and expected to be out of commission for at least three months, opened Tuesday (6/8). “We actually had a record day on Saturday, doing $42,333 – about $800 more than we’d done the previous Festival,” GM Ray Lockhart says. “And typically, we do about $30,000.”
- “We’re doing even more business than usual for CMA Music Fest,” says Mike’s Ice Cream owner Michael Duguay. “So these fans mean a lot to us. We really appreciate what they bring to the downtown area.”
- “We lost all our food, beverages and equipment in the basement,” says Past Perfect restaurant Asst. GM Mark Gendron, who reports exceeding a typical weekend’s take by $3,000. “We definitely needed this.”

Steel Magnolia: Hammer Down

To what lengths – or speeds – will a new artist go to take full advantage of Music Fest? Ask Steel Magnolia, who participated in multiple related events and the radio remotes early last week before departing for the H2O Tour’s Detroit show Friday (6/11). Following the tour’s stop in Pittsburgh Saturday, Steel Mag played an event for WDSY at the Saddle Ridge saloon that ended at 1am. They were due at Nashville’s Riverfront Park by 10am to check in for their 11:30am Sunday performance. As Mapquest has it, that’s a 9-hour, 16-minute drive. The bus arrived and was parked at 9:20am, and that includes a stop for fuel. Bus driver Shane “Yellow Bird” Smiley is currently being screened for lead (foot) poisoning. “He drove like Jeff Gordon,” says tour manager Clint Clifton.

CMAMF Notes

- The YWCA Celebrity Auction with Martina McBride drew $103,000 in bids, a 30% increase. Two framed, hand-written lyric sheets to “She’s A Butterfly” written and autographed by songwriter Big Kenny Alphin went for $11,000 each.
- Taylor Swift’s 13 Hour Meet & Greet stretched to nearly 15 hours, ending at almost 11pm Sunday. Read more here.
- Blake Shelton’s fan club party raised more than $31,000 for the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society. Shelton allowed his fans to request the evening’s songs and pledged to donate $20 for every song he didn’t know. His bill was $510. ESPN’s Erin Andrews requested “Whiskey Bent And Hell Bound,” with the catch that Dierks Bentley perform it, which he did. Laura Bell Bundy and Miranda

Lambert performed "Proud Mary."

• Matt Gary won the Andy Griggs Celebrity Poker Tournament. Proceeds from the event benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, among other charities.

• The 4th Annual Country Weekly Fashion Show and Concert Monday (6/7) raised more than $20,000 for Musicians On Call. Clay Walker and GAC's Suzanne Alexander hosted; Luke Bryan and Joe Nichols performed.

• Temperatures in the upper 90s and extreme humidity sent hundreds of CMAMF attendees in search of medical attention. A 34-year-old festival security guard died Friday and a 29-year-old man died Sunday at Bonnaroo; heat is suspected as a prime cause in both cases.

• For the first time in recent memory, tickets to next year's festival were not made available. They will go on sale in July.

• The new CMA Fest iPhone app was downloaded 4,500 times and 7,000 fans created a custom schedule via the website. More than 34,900 people subscribed to CMA, Chevy, GAC and Jason Aldean mobs, and more than 54,000 texts were sent in hopes of appearing on the screens at LP Field.

Quotebook

"You drive around downtown and there's people everywhere. It just shows that we are playing on. I know that happens to be my album title and it's Nashville's theme right now. Coincidence? I think not."

—Carrie Underwood

"When we were riding over here from the bus on the little golf cart I said, 'Gosh this is a lot different from my first Fan Fair ... big buses, pop-outs, awnings all over everywhere.' I think I rode into Fan Fair in a car with every piece of clothing I could bum off my college roommate because I didn't have any fancy clothes at all."

—Reba

"It's a big thrill for us as artists to get to play in front of that many people. Other than Chesney, nobody else gets to do that."

—Jason Aldean

"For me, it's all about community. It's hard to define it musically because it ebbs and flows but the one constant is the communal feeling in country music and it's never been more apparent than recently here."

—Keith Urban

Bonnaroo: More Country, Less Weed?

Jamey Johnson, Miranda Lambert and the Zac Brown Band bridged the CMA Fest/Bonnaroo divide, bringing a touch of Nashville to the wide-ranging neo-hippie gathering 90-minutes to the south. ZBB and Lambert played simultaneously – the former on the main stage and Miranda in That Tent. "She had the place packed," CA beat reporter Jerry Holthouse tells us. "Lots of young girls and women. She opened with 'Kerosene' and also played 'Only Prettier.'" During Johnson's performance, Holthouse marveled at how well-versed in country the fans were. "The entire audience sang every word to 'In Color' and 'High Cost of Living,'" he says. "You don't expect that at Bonnaroo." He adds, "There weren't nearly as many joints being fired up at those shows, either."

"It's undeniable the genre is very hot right now. Companies have developed corporate relationships with artists on their own, and I've always believed in this fan base as being very impressionable, lucrative and enthusiastic. We did a good job this year targeting companies for packaged goods – an appropriate family lifestyle fit – such as Sunny D, Ocean Spray, Combos, Manwich and Kraft. And of course, Chevy had a big play. We were met with resounding success. Every partner achieved beyond their expectations, with more than 700,000 samples and/or product engagements. Blue Bell alone gave away nearly 50,000 ice creams. We have many companies that want to come back; they've already said, 'I want this same space.'"

As part of CMA's self-described mantra of making the event "a better fan experience in every possible way," corporate marketers were urged to engage consumers beyond giveaways and demonstrations. Warnke continues, "We said, 'Don't come and just sample; please engage the fans.' Part of Coke Zero's tractor-trailer rig has this big HD screen that normally displays music videos, so we put in Fan Fair TV reels. Manwich did their open-mic contest, and were blown away with the talent of the attendees singing 15-second clips. Chevy stepped up and gave $10 for flood relief for every test drive, and Manwich/Con Agra donated $10,000."

Warnke credits CMA marketing execs Tammy Donham, Cory Chapman "and all the people in their department who really did the job with (Chairman) Steve Moore's leadership." She adds, "We were all very singularly focused on building the biggest and best event possible. We knew all eyes were on Nashville, especially with the flood and where we were giving the proceeds."

Premiere's network remotes are part of CMA's strategy to keep radio in front of corporate marketers, too. Warnke explains, "We know the No. 1 way music is experienced is through Country radio. We tell our partners this when we sell-in the genre, saying 'Forty percent of America are country music fans, and the first place they discover new music is on the radio.' There are companies that need to be told more about radio because country is unlike most other genres, where radio is not at the top of the media list. But we tell these companies, 'You've got to be on radio because this is where they [the consumers] are.' CMA provides research to its members, and there's an opportunity for radio to use this intelligence to capture some of the fever of what we're seeing."

"It's an extremely well constructed song delivered with expertise by Mr. Wesley. This song will rock on the radio!"
 - John Sebastian / WWQM

Katie Armiger

"Leaving Home"

For everyone who left home to chase their dreams...and the parents they left behind

Add Date:
June 21st

"Every kid dreams of the day they leave home and every parent dreads it...Katie captures those emotions perfectly in her new song...every parent and child should listen!"

-Tony Trovato, Music Director, GAC

FROM FACEBOOK:

KSOP/Deb Turpin: Hey Katie...awesome new song!

KAJA/Travis Moon: Terrific Song, wonderful video!

YouTube: 10 DAYS OVER 70,000 VIEWS!

REAL QUOTES FROM REAL LISTENERS

swaggboss2009: Douglass High in Atlanta, GA class of 2010 sang this song beautifully...the entire crowd was crying!

LightOfLove515: Nobody I've heard has put such a realistic sense of the feelings, and things you want your parents to know before you leave home.

butterfly021792: ...it's our favorite song to sing and it hits close to home for us military brats.

Frani092: hi Katie...from Shoemaker High School...I just wanted to say that leaving home is the best song that I ever heard.
