Promotions & The Internet: Promise Or Problem?

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, then radio ought to be imprisoned for praise. But in the age of the internet, the oh-so-common practice of lifting bits, promotions and ideas from other stations could be problematic. With listeners just a Google search away from everything that's ever been done, should stations be concerned about looking too obviously derivative or coming off as stale by using something on-air that's been tried elsewhere?

Case in point: KRKT/Albany, OR PD/morning man Scott Schuler's recent "A Hug From Blake Shelton" campaign. Schuler and the station generated a tremendous amount of interest in advance of Shelton's performance in the area, raised their own profile with mentions in the trades and online videos, and generally had a lot of fun for all to see. But can an admiring PD or promotions director in another town employ the idea effectively?

Scott Schuler

That's just one anecdotal example, but the question remains: How does the all-pervasive internet change radio's time-honored tradition of "flattering" their peers with purloined promotions and bits? "Go with it," Schuler says. "We did, and if your plan is well-executed, no one will know or care that you 'stole' the idea."

White Trash With Money: KMLE/Phoenix create their own "Trailerhood" in honor of Toby Keith's single at the city's stop of the American Ride Tour this weekend. In addition to the decor, the station played "Trailerhood Games" such as College Fund Transfer (contestants used a straw to move pennies from one mason jar to the next), Musical Man Chairs (same as the original, except the chairs are made of men) and Dirty Laundry Sort (participants sorted their dirty laundry on a clothes line for the rest of the trailerhood to see). One listener even won a brand new truck. Watch the ear-splitting and heart warming video here.

The Full McGraw

Tim McGraw came pretty close to going "full monty" during a prank for Lady Antebellum's last performance on the Southern Voice tour Saturday (8/7) in Toronto. Shirtless and in gym shorts, McGraw and the Dancehall Doctors stormed the stage during "Love Don't Live Here." The antics continued when Brett Warren

The follow up single from his critically acclaimed album "Up On The Ridge"

"From the pickin' of his guitar and the strum of the resonator, Dierks Bentley with 'Draw Me a Map' has not only created another true country song but he's also drawn US a map to get back to what is true and in our souls, country music. Whether I'm 'Up On The Ridge' or in my car, Dierks plays in my ears and gets my feet tappin' and my heart soarin'. It's called 'Country Music' folks, plain and true from Dierks Bentley to you. Hear it."

MY TUNES: MUSIC THAT SHAPED MY LIFE

Valory Southwest rep Miranda Williams discusses her most important songs, artists or concerts:

1. Chris LeDoux/Tougher Than The Rest:

I always hoped this would be the song that some suitor would think of when he thought of me. Instead it was usually Joan Jett's "I Hate Myself For Loving You." That, or "Baby Got Back..."

2. Garth Brooks: He is the epitome of a superstar with everything from his attention to detail to his work ethic. He is the prototype for success.

3. U2: I like most of their music, but specifically "If God Will Send His Angels." The production and their lyrics pretty much have the same affect on me as peyote did to my ancestors; it moves me. I don't see any dancing monkeys or anything, I just feel moved every time I hear their music.

4. Patty Griffin: "Poor Man's House," "Tony," "Nobody's Crying," "The Chief," "Forgiveness," "Time Will Do The Talking," and "Sweet Lorraine." She is quite possibly my favorite female writer of all time.

5. Justin Moore/Small Town USA: All you other record reps are rolling your eyes right now, but you shouldn't do that: they'll stick. Working this record was more rewarding than any other. I'm still somewhat of a rookie in the business, so taking Justin Moore from obscurity to No. 1 was one of the most gratifying experiences in my career to date. Extremely meaningful.

• A highly regarded song or album you've never heard: Anything by Pink Floyd. What an odd name.

• An "important" piece of music you just don't get: The Beatles. Please don't throw sharp objects at me.

• An album you played or listened to incessantly: Sarah McLachlan's Surfacing.

• One obscure or non-country song everyone should listen to right now: "It's A Shame" by Will Hoge. If you ask me this next week, my answers will be different.

Loser's and benefits the Crohn's & Colitis Foundation of America's Tennessee Chapter.

CAA agent Rod Essig and Mediabase EVP/Integrated Music Marketing Alissa Pollack are among the newly elected MusiCares directors. Full list of board officers and directors can be found at www.musicares.com.

Schuler knows of which he speaks, having lifted the bit himself from a fan's quest for a meeting with another star. "Obviously, we ran with this after hearing about and watching the 'hug from Taylor Swift' stuff last winter," he explains. "We took that concept and warped it into something totally different and fun. I truly believe that even if the idea was done somewhere else, it can still be useful to you."

"Just about every bit/stunt/promotion has been done before thus, stolen from somewhere," agrees WCTO/Allentown OM/

PD George King. "You have to put your own spin on it to make it a little different, but a great promotion is a great promotion." King begged off further comment with this nugget: "Gotta run and put together our 'An Embrace from Miranda' promotion."

Consultant Joel Raab notes that some listeners may be catching on. "You have to be a bit more careful when copying concepts from market to market," he says. "In conducting focus groups in different cities, I've noticed listeners are becoming more hip to what is being done city to city. That means originality (what a concept) can get you further, especially if you put a local spin on it."

Even if listeners don't figure it out, somebody might. "For the most part, PDs have 'borrowed' good ideas from other PDs (with and without permission) for as long as we all can remember," says KKWF (The Wolf)/Seattle

PD Mike Preston. "The internet has just made it easier to find the potentially good ideas by looking at websites, then listening to streams to see if the execution actually works, and finally, then either adapting the idea to your specific situation or in extreme cases, just copying it, literally, word for word."

"This happened to us at The Wolf only this week. We have a Miranda Lambert ticket promotion for an upcoming concert running. Wingnut, my PM drive personality, voiced a promo where it sounds like he's having a little conversation with Miranda, using some lines from her that our imaging guy had in his arsenal. The promo started last weekend. Fast forward to Wednesday and during a listening session to a few other Country stations in the region, we noticed a station doing our exact promotion – right down to their PM drive jock having almost the same conversation with Miranda! No need to identify the culprit. We all play this game occasionally, but most of the time you don't actually get to hear how you've helped someone else program their station! The web

The payoff of a good promotion can go far beyond the on-air juice. For a small market station like KRKT, the "Hug" extended to considerable face time with Shelton and other artists. "[WMN] has always been secondary friendly," Warner Music Nashville VP/Promotion Bob Reeves says. "We entertain any promotional ideas from any source at radio. Most often the determining factor in whether we take part or approve a request is the amount and/or level of artist participation needed. Travel to the market, the number of stations involved in that particular day's show or even sound check schedules can greatly limit the number of things any artist can take part in past the traditional meet & greet or a visit to the broadcast booth.

"That said, I don't see why repeating a similar promotion would be a problem. You'd actually have a better idea of the time and effort it takes to pull it off or maybe even address trouble spots the second time around. As far as radio stealing an idea from another station, imitation is the greatest form of flattery. I don't see how the average listener in any given market would know about a promotion that happened on the other side of the country. Even with the success of KRKT's event, how many listeners in, say, Albany, NY would have heard about it?"

Even a well-formed promotion can present stumbling blocks, however. "My idea was presented in concept only with no details at a meeting with the festival directors and I flat out told them we needed to present Blake on Saturday during the festival to be able to pull this off," Schuler explains. "Initially, they balked and wanted us on Keith Urban night (they split them between stations) and even my GM and sales manager tried to talk me out of [it]. They suggested a different angle, maybe 'A Chug From Blake Shelton.' But I stuck to my original plan and we made it work. We really did own that night of the festival and pulled off something special for everyone involved. I even overheard Blake commenting that it looked we put a lot into it. Just the fact that he was willing to participate at all is a testament to what a good sport and class act he is."

Here are more of the Spring 2010 diary Arbitron ratings, recapping the markets as they came in to Country Aircheck Today last week. With a few exceptions, only stations achieving at least a 1.0 share are included. Legend: A "+" indicates a Classic Country outlet, a "^" designates Country stations in the same market owned by a single operator and a "t" indicates a tie. A "NA" indicates a subscriber-only market, where rankings are not available, or a station programming another format during that ratings period. Client-exclusive ratings are embargoed from publication.
