Former Staff Share CMT Stories

Nothing official from Paramount, but with CMT's last local staff departing in December (CAT 10/30/2025), the network's run as a Nashville-based content source for country music appears to be over. In tribute, Country Aircheck asked former staffers to share favorite stories from their time at the network.

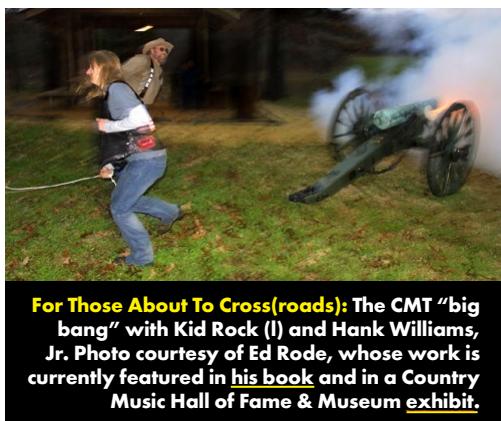

Leslie Fram, Music Strategy & Talent (2011-2024): The big pivot! That's a standout CMT Music Awards moment from 2022 when Kelsea Ballerini tested positive for COVID-19 just days before the April 11 broadcast. She was originally scheduled to co-host in person with Anthony Mackie, but pivoted to hosting – and performing her single "Heartfirst" – remotely from her home. The production team quickly recreated elements of the stage in her living room, complete with professional lighting and glam setup. She joined segments via a massive screen, bantering seamlessly with on-site hosts Mackie and last-minute addition Kane Brown (who graciously stepped in to co-host in person). It was widely praised as a professional, resilient handling of a curveball – turning "bitter lemons" into lemonade, as Ballerini put it.

Chris Parr, Programming & Talent (1997-2007):

The big bang theory of CMT is an image of Hank Williams, Jr. and Kid Rock shooting a civil war cannon at the top of the second CMT Crossroads. It's often been credited with being the first Crossroads, but that was actually

Chart Chat

Congratulations to Blake Shelton, Ken Tucker, Shelley Hargis, Jennifer Shaffer, Scotty O'Brien and the Wheelhouse promotion team on taking "Stay Country or Die Tryin'" to No. 1. This is Shelton's 31st visit to No. 1 and gives him sole possession of seventh-most in the 52 year history of the R&R/MB/CA airplay charts. Songwriters are Beau Bailey, Graham Barham, Sam Ellis and Drew Parker.

With Megan Moroney at No. 5 this week, and Ella Langley moving 6 to 4, the chart has two solo female records in the top 5 for the first time since the chart of March 27, 2023, when Carly Pearce was No. 1 and Lainey Wilson was at 3.

Kudos to Jimmy Rector and the Mercury crew on scoring 74 adds for Tucker Wetmore's "Brunette." This is Wetmore's second time to top the CA/MB Add Board.

WKYC/Augusta, GA has been temporarily removed due to technical issues.

Elvis Costello and Lucinda Williams. The Ed Rode image of that cannon shot was the exact spirit Brian Philips and myself had spent many hours talking about. In our vision, it was what a new, bolder and louder Country Music Television would look and feel like. It was how we wanted to set a tone and change the perception of CMT from "background music" to becoming a cable viewer destination for all things country. Nothing was ever the same after that taping.

Margaret Comeaux, Production, Music & Events (2001-2025): The CMT Music Awards was a year-round undertaking. As soon as one show wrapped, we were already thinking about the next – what we could do differently and how to raise the bar. Because the show was based in Nashville for most of its run, one of our biggest behind-the-scenes challenges was timing around the NHL playoffs. As the Nashville Predators became more and more successful, Bridgestone Arena was often unavailable right when our show was scheduled. That meant every year we had to build a full contingency plan, sometimes designing two complete versions of the show in parallel. In 2017, that plan became reality and we moved the show to Music City Center just a few short weeks before we went live. It required close coordination with the city and multiple venues, but it ultimately worked and we had a great show.

Jennifer Devault, Producer (2001-2024): I was the contact for Richard Simmons the day he came to CMT. My job was to deliver him from the lobby to the crew in the studio. Somehow he got off the elevator on the wrong floor and didn't make it to the front desk, but came bounding onto the third floor hollering my name with his usual enthusiasm and wearing his trademark skimpy shorts and tank top. Everyone recognized that voice and came out from all corners of the office to see what was going on. Usually CMT staffers were completely professional when we had country artists in the building, but Richard was like the pied piper collecting everyone in the studio and leading a giant group workout dance. His energy and fun left everyone at CMT with a smile that day.

Cody Alan, Host (2008-2025): Among my favorite memories are all the trips I took overseas to film with the troops. Hot 20 Countdown went everywhere from Bahrain to South Korea, from Alaska to Japan, Hawaii to Puerto Rico – on aircraft carriers, in choppers, on bases, and more. All in celebration of the men and women serving our country. No doubt those were once in a lifetime opportunities I'll never forget. Also and obviously, coming from radio to CMT meant I literally learned on the job how to be a TV personality. I'd never actually read from a Teleprompter before I got there. I also got lots of reps doing artist interviews, one of my favorite aspects of my jobs. So many skills learned that have really prepped me well for all I still want to do.

Heather Graffagnino, Production (2002-2024): The enthusiasm was palpable all through the building when we were working to launch

Nashville on CMT. It was a massive undertaking, but everyone in every department was working at the highest level with all their creative and logistical acumen to deliver first rate promotion, marketing and complimentary content to serve the one goal of making it a success on the channel, and we delivered as one team.

Stacey Cato, Music & Talent (1999-2024): The fan-voted Breakthrough Video of the Year was Taylor Swift's first-ever award win (for "Tim McGraw"). She was so over-the-top grateful, not only to the fans, but also to CMT, that she contacted leadership and asked if she could come by our office to thank everyone. Of course our execs agreed and let Taylor know we'd set up our main studio, invite the CMT staff to attend and she could thank everyone at once. But Taylor did not want to do that. Instead, she started on the first floor, at the first desk and spent time with each individual where they did their work. She spent hours at CMT that afternoon. It didn't matter if you were the janitor or the president, you got at least 10 minutes with Taylor. She wanted to know everyone's origin story, and all about their families. The focus was not on herself, how hard it is on the road or getting on radio. Taylor made it 100% about the person she was talking with in that moment, took a picture with them and concluded by saying "thank you" directly. It didn't matter if you liked her music, you became a fan of Taylor Swift that day.

Cynthia Mangrum, Business & Legal Affairs (2002-2024): The first year individual music awards performances began streaming digitally we were inundated with questions from digital about what rights existed for each performance, and we worked together to create a rights report so the digital teams had what they needed. It was a very "CMT" solution: roll up your sleeves, figure it out together and make it easier for the next person. We were lean, we trusted each other, and everyone understood that if one piece didn't work, the whole thing stalled. It really did feel like a family, and that's what made the work so meaningful.

Cindy Finke, Communications (2002-2019): What made CMT special was the people. We were more than coworkers and many of us still have true friendships years later. My favorite experience at CMT was going to Jamaica and visiting June Carter Cash and Johnny Cash at their

Cinnamon Hill home. I watched TV on the couch with Johnny, and June invited all of us to eat lunch in her dining room where we all held hands and blessed the meal. It was a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

John Hamlin, Exec. Producer (2007-2025): For a dozen years of the CMT Music Awards, we did digital comedy shorts to open the show. We knew the more stars we could get in a taped comedy piece, the more buzz it would create on the internet. We did a lot of wacky stuff. One year, the bit was to have Florida Georgia Line and Luke Bryan get in a fight in an elevator and show surveillance camera footage because this was the year of the Solange, Jay-Z, Beyoncé elevator fight. Our original script had the fight starting because Tyler Hubbard farted in the elevator. Wiser and more tasteful people – i.e. my boss, Brian Philips – talked me out of the fart, but that hadn't gotten to Tyler. We started shooting the scene and I had tell him that it had been cut. He was like, "Man, I was really looking forward to that." One year we had FGL dressed up as Prince Harry and Prince William. Darius Rucker was the Queen of England. We put Alan Jackson in a Rolls Royce with Arnold Schwarzenegger and Steven Tyler. After a few years, I would get calls a couple of months out from managers and publicists saying their artists loved the shorts and wanted to be in one. The country music community really leaned in and we got so much goodwill from it. – Chuck Aly

NEW COUNTRY AIRCHECK/MEDIABASE REPORTER WEIGHTS

These are the new weights for Country Aircheck/Mediabase. Published and Activator panel Country Reporters based on audience figures from Nielsen. Weights for stations in PPM markets use a three-month average of July-August-September AQH Persons. The Summer 2025 AQH Persons figure is used for diary markets. Stations in markets with no Summer book use their weight from last Spring. The weights are calculated using this formula: Market rank is multiplied by 10 and then added to the station's AQH Persons.

A station's weight is determined by dividing that adjusted AQH by an average of the five stations with the highest adjusted AQH. For this period, that average adjusted AQH is 16,698. These new weights are effective with this week's Country Aircheck/Mediabase Country chart. Also, stations that do not subscribe to Nielsen have been assigned a weight of 1.0 since it is not possible to calculate a weight without an AQHP number to enter in the formula.
