Throwdown Is Country At Warped Speed

Country Throwdown tour founder Kevin Lyman is best known for creating and running the rock/punk/extreme sports Warped Tour, which is now a 15-year-old juggernaut. So when he politely suggests that radio wasn't exactly at the core of getting his earlier endeavors off the ground, it's quite understandable. And yet if the tour's opening weekend is any indication, this traveling festival has the chance to be a force on the road – and with radio – for years to come.

"This weekend was a very big learning curve," Lyman admits. "My background isn't in country, so it's about learning the audience and finding ways to tweak the show a little bit. The nice thing was the response from fans, even on the first day. They didn't quite understand it at first, but once the show started it really came together and you saw a lot of Facebook and Twitter posts from people saying, 'Wow, there's a lot going on.'"

WQYK/Tampa's Mike Culotta had his station on site well in advance of the first show. "We were broadcasting live Thursday (5/13) during setup and all day Friday (5/14)," he says. "We were really trying to help listeners, who may not be familiar with this concept, know where to go and what to do."

The concept includes more than a dozen performers (Montgomery Gentry, Jamey Johnson, Jack Ingram, Little Big Town, Eli Young Band, Eric Church, Lost Trailers, Ryan Bingham, Emily West, Jonathan Singleton, Heidi Newfield and more) across three stages for eight hours or more of music.

"It's not your regular show just rolling in and rolling out," Culotta says. "It's really a fun-filled, energy-packed day. (continued on page 5)"

Hoedown Lowdown: For the 28th year, WYCD/Detroit's Downtown Hoedown drew record numbers to the free three-day concert. Pictured (l-r) are OM Tim Roberts, AM driver Dr. Don, Samantha and Bob Seger, Steve Azar and AM co-host Steve Grunwald. Samantha sang background vocals for Azar. Radio News

- New KVOO/Tulsa morning host Skip Mahaffey is the subject of a story in today's St. Petersburg Times. The former WFUS/Tampa AM driver talked to the paper about losing his job a year ago, "We got lazy," he said. "We'd go in, they would hand me everything and we'd do it and that was it." Then-producer Melissa Bunting agreed, "I think, had everybody on the (Mahaffey) show done everything they were supposed to do 100 percent, we might still be working in Tampa. (But) radio is a business; you have to bring your best game in the hallways and on the air every day." Read the article here.

MY TUNES: MUSIC THAT SHAPED MY LIFE

Rich Summers

KIZN/Boise OM Rich Summers discusses his most important songs, artists or concerts:

1. Lenny Welch/Since I Fell For You:

My father was a jazz musician and an instrumental music teacher, so I was in band and choir in high school. I remember the first time I heard Lenny Welch sing this song, the passion and emotion he put into it stuck with me. When I listen to new music today, I listen for that same passion and feeling.

2. Andrea Bocelli and Sarah Brightman/Time To Say Goodbye:

My mother wanted this played at her funeral. My father played the trumpet, so I did a mix of Chris Botti's (trumpet) version with the Bocelli/Brightman version. What else is there to say?

3. The Beatles, Abbey Road: First album I bought with my own money. It still brings back memories of my junior high days. Yikes!

4. Samuel Barber/Adagio for Strings: What a powerful, emotional piece of music. Don't recognize the title? Watch Platoon.

5. Trace Adkins/Til The Last Shot's Fired: I have a deep respect for the men and women of the military and what they do for our country. My father served in the Korean War, and while I never had to serve, I went to high school with a couple of guys that didn't come home from Vietnam. This song is so meaningful and powerful.

• A highly regarded song or album you've never heard: I've never listened to a Grateful Dead album. I'm not sure what that means. LOL.

• An "important" piece of music you just don't get: I don't get rap. Yeah ... yeah ...

• An album you played or listened to incessantly: Recently, the Zac Brown Band's The Foundation. In the past, Pink Floyd's Dark Side Of The Moon.

• One obscure or non-country song everyone should listen to right now: Blue County's "I Get To." We all tend to see too many things as inconveniences, when in reality they are a privilege. Aaron and Scott nailed it with this song.

Dixie Stampede for Tennessee flood relief efforts Saturday (5/22) and Sunday (5/23). Net admission proceeds will benefit flood victims through the Dollywood Foundation. Details here.

And the amount of talent, just from the sheer number of artists, is more than you're used to seeing. The concept is great from the standpoint of allowing people to hear a lot of artists who they may not have heard before by giving them exposure in a festival like this."

Lyman says, "It's good to have someone as established as

Mike Culotta

Montgomery Gentry, but it's also great to bring out Eli Young Band – who are more established in Texas – and put them in front of a few thousand people.

"Watching fans come into the venue was a little like the first Warped Tour in 1995," he adds. "They're so used to coming in and going straight to their seats. But after about an hour they started to get the feel of it. And the good news is, the fans will spread the word."

Lyman was particularly pleased to see the response to the Bluebird Café stage. "It was packed. People were really drawn to it and it was, in a way, like sitting at the Bluebird Café and being that close to the music."

The process of mapping the country landscape has been aided, Lyman says, by his interaction with radio, including Culotta. "He was very supportive and helpful, talking through how the market works, how to work closely with radio stations and how to attach what we're doing to that," Lyman says.

"We delivered a comprehensive menu of promotions – two pages – to all the radio stations. There's a 'lunch with Jack Ingram' promotion and an acoustic set with Eli Young Band. We ran a carload promotion – $30 to bring a carload of people if you arrive by 4pm. The big thing is we need to get critical mass to see the show this year. We want to engage radio, give them multiple opportunities to participate, and through that engage the fans, too.

"We haven't been in that radio world so much, but Sammy Cruise at WIRK gave us some great input in West Palm Beach (5/15), and their station really embraced it. Radio fits well into the concept of the tour, and being a festival makes the experience a little different. Most of the stations have already started lining up to participate."

Night Moves: WYCD/ Detroit's Downtown Hoedown drew a record 1.3 million fans to see 59 artists over three days. Friday night with headliner Dierks Bentley set a one-night attendance record and Zac Brown Band closed the event with a tribute to the military Sunday. "I'm so proud of our staff and the City of Detroit for being able to put on the world's largest free country concert and work together for an incredible three-day experience," PD Tim Roberts says. "We also were able to give back to the Red Cross with a donation from our 'Nickels for Nashville' campaign."

Lyman defers to local Live Nation promoters on a per-show basis as to what stations can expect, especially competing stations. But he does note that multiple stations in one market have set up on-site already, with as many as six stations expected at one upcoming date. Promotions are aimed at getting the "value add" of more mentions.

And from Culotta's viewpoint, the artists are fully engaged. "Every artist came by and talked to us multiple times," he says. "We got to put a listener onstage to announce the artist of their choice, which ended up being Montgomery Gentry. We also had a 'Be In The Band' promotion where a listener got to stand on the side of the stage during Little Big Town.

"There was tremendous camaraderie with all the artists," Culotta continues. "Backstage they were grilling out hot dogs and burgers, and Montgomery Gentry had a crawfish boil. Jamey Johnson brought a bunch of artists out on stage to sing 'I'll Fly Away.'"

"Those things are fun to see," Lyman agrees. "There's a great sense of discovery, and it's not just the fans – we're watching the artists discover each other, too. It's also a great way for radio programmers to see artists play in a setting they might not have otherwise."

Lyman says Country Throwdown drew almost 9,000 fans in Tampa and between 7,500 and 8,000 in West Palm. Considered against another touring institution he built, those are solid numbers. "When we launched the Warped Tour in Florida that first year I think we had about 800 people," he says.

Culotta is excited about the future of Country Throwdown, and suggests his colleagues take advantage of the commitment festival organizers have made to involving local broadcasters. "Radio needs to embrace them, too," he says. "There are a lot of opportunities there."
